ALL READY FOR THE HORSE SHOW

Rushville Has on Its Glad Rags Prepared to Entertain Its Many Visitors.

TO RACE ON FIRST STREET

Some Interesting Events are Scheduled—Home of Blooded Horses to Hold Open House.

The first annual Fall Horse Show will open tomorrow under ideal conditions and with everything pointing to a most successful show. The different committees in charge of the affair have worked tirelessly to make it a big event and one that would redound great credit on the best horse producing county in the State. The name of Rush county is synonymous with high class horses and this fact will attract lovers of good horse flesh from all parts of Indiana.

The good that is sure to result from such events is hard to measure. Not only will the merchants be greatly benefitted, as they always are when crowds are attracted to this city, but the farmers will have an opportunity to show their stock to better advantage than ever before.

NOTES.

The old town is fast taking on its glad rags. Most attractive are the horse show colors of purple and old gold.

The streets were never in better condition. Pity we haven't those brick paved streets, though. What?

Aileen Wilson, the queen of the pacing turf for '08 will lead the parade tomorrow.

Every rig in the city, whether the owner has any hopes of winning a prize or no, should be in the parade.

Rush county first, the world afterwards, in the matter of raising high toned and blooded horses.

The Grand and Vaudet theaters will have special programs for both nights of the horse show.

The $25 in purses offered for the best Patchen Boy colts by Dick Wilson & Son is creating a good deal of interest among the owners of Patchen Boys.

The entries are fast filling and will be greater in number than the managers ever anticipated.

The merchants are coming through nicely with appropriate decorations.

The Democrats will have a public speaking Tuesday night and the Republicans will have the secretary of the State of Kentucky here Wednesday night at headquarters.

The races will be given in West First street and will be as classy and exciting as the ones seen on race tracks. There will be starting judges at one point and finishing judges at the other. This attraction will probably prove the most interesting to the most people.

The court house yard looked like the good old, rare old days as many old benches have been installed for the convenience of the weary. Jabez Smith will let them cut watermelons, if they like, for these two days and "cut up high jinks" with a festival spirit.

One of the most interesting exhibits is found in Frank Wilson's clothing store window. It is the complete outfit worn by Aileen Wilson in her wonderful performances on the race course this season, including her boots, sulky, whips (which are seldom if ever needed), hair bridle made and presented by a convict in a Montana prison and the cap and jacket worn by the driver, Dick Wilson.

When it comes to fine horses and blooded politicians Rush county comes under the wire first, several leads ahead of all other counties.

Betker & Bliss, both geniuses, after the manor born, is the big firm on decorations. Despite their artistic and sensitive nature—peculiar to artists—they have worked in perfect harmony—so far.

Homer Powell, Dr. Davis, Sherman Oneal and P. A. Miller is a quartette that by the sweat of their brows, will make the horse show a big success.

A. T. Mahin and an able corps of assistants have made the town look like a Christmas tree, with hundreds of different colored electric light bulbs artistically arranged on wire streamers.

Harry Boyd, as usual, leads, with a clever decorative scheme at the Wolcott drug store. The drug stores are always alive to everything that comes along in Rushville, both the Johnson store and Hargrove & Mullin store being among the first to put in attractive decorations. T. W. Lytle has an appropriate display in the picture of Jim Wilson, the owner of Blue Bull 75, and a picture of that famous stallion. Mr. Wilson was the pioneer fast horseman in Indiana and the father of the Wilson family, all well known horsemen.

BLOOD POISONING HAS DEVELOPED

Roy Steele, Who Was Struck by a Train at Milroy is in Serious Condition.

AMPUTATION IS NECESSARY

Roy Steele, who was struck by a freight train while driving over the crossing at Milroy two weeks ago, will lose one of his feet as a result of the accident. The injury was not considered very serious at first, but has developed into blood poisoning. The foot was badly crushed and amputation just below the knee will be necessary. He is confined at the Sexton sanitarium.

MOTHER OF LARGE FAMILY SUCCEMBED

Mrs. Jane Gwinnup Dies at Age of 56

Years—Death Was Due to Dropsy.

THE BURIAL OCCURRED TODAY

Mrs. Jane Gwinnup, aged 56 years, died at her home two and one-half miles south of New Salem Saturday night at 7 o'clock, death being due to dropsy. She was a highly respected lady of that community and leaves many friends to mourn her loss. Six children survive, Mrs. Ella Smith and Edward, Clint, Carl, Harry and Grant Gwinnup.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Thompson at the Baptist church in New Salem this afternoon; burial in the Baptist cemetery.

OLD STORY OF THE WRONG BOTTLE

John Meek of Orange Took Large Swallow of Carbolic Acid by Mistake.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Distracted Patient Drank Sweet Cream Then Telephoned for a Physician.

John Meek, an aged and widely known resident of Orange, narrowly escaped death last Friday by an accidental swallow of carbolic acid.

Mr. Meek, who has been suffering from a cold for several days, went to a cupboard, intending to take a dose of some medicine he had been using for the cold. The cupboard was situated in a shadowed angle of the room, and by some oversight a vial of carbolic acid had been left near the place where he ordinarily kept his cold prescription. Without noticing the mistake he uncorked the acid bottle and took a small swallow. The immediate scorching of every tissue touched by the fierce drug brought on a spasm of pain that almost drove him distracted. Even in this state of mind Mr. Meek did, perhaps, the wisest thing he could have done. He rushed into the cellar and drank a quantity of sweet cream, which not only had a soothing effect on his burning throat and mouth, but it served to absorb all the acid that remained on those surfaces. Having done this he telephoned for a physician. The latter arrived without loss of time, and found the patient in a critical condition. The throat was swollen so as to prevent swallowing and the pain was still intense. Such treatment as was practicable was administered, and within an hour he grew better. The swelling grew less alarming after a time, and reports from the patient are that he is out of danger and may be expected to recover entirely within a short time.

Mr. Meek is the father of Perry Meek of Connersville and of Sylvester Meek of Greenfield, who was formerly Democratic district chairman.

BARN DESTROYED ON FARM NEAR HOMER

Loss of $1500 Incurred in a Fire on the Harrison Arbuckle Place.

LIVE STOCK WAS RESCUED

The large barn on the farm of Harrison Arbuckle, east of Homer, was destroyed by fire last night. All the animals were gotten out, but hay, corn and farming implements, together with the building were destroyed by the flames. A loss of $1500 was incurred which was partially covered by insurance.

Partnership for mutual advantage was observed recently when two one-legged men went into a Broadway automatic shoe-shinning shop and each had his one shoe shined for the same nickel dropped in the slot.

WITH MURDER IN HIS HEART

Crazed by Drink Joe Moran Attacked James Cauley, Cutting His Throat With a Knife.

ATTACK WAS A VICIOUS ONE.

Occurred in Shelbyville, Where the Two Rushville Men Were Employed—Moran in Jail.

The story of the murderous assault of one Rushville man upon another occurred in Shelbyville Saturday evening caused no end of discussion in this city Sunday and today as both parties are well known. While in a drunken condition Joe Moran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Moran of North Sexton street attacked James Cauley, son of Mrs. Michael Cauley of North Perkins street, and that Cauley escaped being foully murdered by one he had befriended, was the merest accident. Cauley is known to be a peaceful young man and is exceedingly popular here. He was crippled several years ago by rheumatism and walks with a cane. On the other hand Moran is a quarrelsome individual when he is drinking. He is now in jail in Shelbyville and the case will probably go hard with him. Of the fracas the Shelbyville News says:

"Crazed by drink, Joseph Moran, with a knife, murderously assaulted James Cauley in the Augustus Hirschauer blacksmith shop on east Washington street at dusk Saturday evening, cutting his right ear in two and making a gash to the bone down his cheek following the line of the jaw to the point of the chin. The knife was purchased half an hour before at the DePrez store. Moran was arrested by Policeman James Jackson and placed in jail to await the preliminary today. Cauley, weak from loss of blood which spurted from the ugly wound, was carried to his room in the Ross House. His condition is not serious although of such nature as to necessitate quiet for a few days.

Moran and Cauley were school boy friends in Rushville, and no enmity existed here. Cauley is a cigar maker employed by Al Geis. He secured a position for Moran as a blacksmith at the Hirschauer shop several days ago. Saturday, Moran was intoxicated and early in the day tried to pick a fight with a farmer patron of the shop. Mr. Hirschauer discharged him. Moran returned later in the afternoon declaring he would be all right by Monday and would return to work. Hirschauer emphatically explained to him his service and presence were not desired and, with sullen countenance, Moran left the shop.

Sometime after 5 o'clock Cauley was conversing with Hirschauer. With stealthy step Moran entered the door, and he dealt the murderous blow before his presence was noted. When the knife struck Cauley's ear and plowed through the cheek, he instinctively turned his head and to this unconscious act, no doubt, owes his life for the blade, instead of passing on through the neck, and entering the chest, turned, leaving the face at the point of the chin. He raised his hand to strike again but Hirschauer grabbed his thumb and succeeded in making him drop the knife. When released Moran struck at Hirschauer's brother with a horse-shoe, the cork tearing his shirt from neck to waist band, a dull crimson mark extending along his back. Hirschauer grappled Moran, throwing him to the floor. Subdued, Moran left with Hirschauer for the police station. At the laundry alley, Hirschauer, thinking Cauley might need his help, released Moran, who walked through the alley to Jackson street, where Officer Jackson arrested him.

Enroute to the jail Moran asked the policeman repeatedly "Is he dead?"

Cauley lost much blood in the blacksmith shop and before the physician arrived it was feared he would bleed to death.

Moran's sisters came from Rushville Saturday evening and after visiting their brother at the jail, spent a portion of the evening with Cauley. They were very solicitous concerning his welfare. Cauley's brother came Sunday. Cauley and Moran are sons of prominent and influential people in Rushville."

HOLLOWELL MAY DIE OF INJURIES

Man Who Inflicted Pistol Wound in His Temple, Was Operated on Today.

ABSCESS FORMED NEAR BRAIN

Marshall Hollowell, who shot himself last May while grief stricken over a love affair, and likewise shot the object of his jealous affections, Miss Mary Ertle, lies in a serious condition at the Sexton sanitarium.

Mr. Hollowell was apparently on the road to recovery, the dangerous wound at the base of his brain healing nicely, when an abscess developed a few days ago, and it became necessary to perform a delicate operation this afternoon in an effort to save his life. Dr. Sexton was assisted in the operation by Drs. Frank Green and W. S. Coleman.

The wound in his temple is said to have healed too soon and an abscess formed near his brain, causing the left side of his body to become paralyzed. At a late hour this afternoon the father of the unfortunate man entertained little hope for his son's recovery.

BURGLAR HAD A CONSCIENCE PAIN

Successfully Robbed the Home of Lew Oneal, But Returned the Booty Afterwards.

MADE HAUL SUNDAY MORNING

Oneal Surprised to Find Articles Stolen in the Garden—Blood Hound Scare.

A very peculiar robbery occurred early Sunday morning at the home of Lew Oneal, in North Morgan street. Burglars entered by the front door, which had been left open the night before and took several articles including a watch, $5.70 in money and a few other small articles of little value. Officer Pea was called as soon as the robbery was discovered and made a thorough investigation of the neighborhood, but was unable to find any trace of the thieves.

The post-climax came this morning when Mr. Oneal walked into the back yard and found lying under a grape arbor all the things which had been stolen, neatly tied up in a handkerchief. The prowlers were evidently conscious stricken or feared they would be detected if the recently purchased blood hounds arrived today.

The few robberies and attempted robberies which have occurred recently were all in the neighborhood of the Oneal home.

SERIES OF REVIVAL MEETINGS CLOSE

Rev. George Lehigh Highly Successful in a Fertile Field of Endeavor Here.

TIMELY SERMON ON "GIVING"

The series of meetings held at the assembly room in the court house by Rev. G. M. Lehigh, evangelist, closed Sabbath evening. Large crowds attended the afternoon and evening services. Several from Connersville and Homer were present. In his afternoon sermon, which had as its theme, "Giving," Rev. Lehigh said it was very probable that the new church which he has been organizing here, would soon be supplied by a regular pastor.

Rev. Lehigh is sent out by the Missionary Baptist church to organize new churches and his work here has been very successful. He is a forceful, instructive and entertaining speaker and is the possessor of a winning personality. The new congregation now has eighty names on its church rolls.

OUR BIG FLEET'S WARM WELCOME

The Japanese Do Everything
To Show Friendship.

CORDIAL OFFICIAL GREETING

In the Formal Exchange of Amenities at Great State Banquet at Yokohama, It Was Made Plain That Nothing Is Ever Likely to Occur to Break the Traditional Friendship Which Has Existed Since the First Acquaintance Between the Japanese and Ourselves—Magnificent Scene in Harbor.

Yokohama, Oct. 19.—Storm-battered but magnificent, the American battleship fleet lies in the harbor, the assemblage making a display unprecedented in the history of Yokohama. Shortly after the ships came to anchor, the mist which had shut out their coming cleared and a light breeze carried away the smoke from the saluting guns, revealing from the shore front the lines of white American ships of war, backed by the gray of the Japanese. Scores of small craft chartered by individuals and associations darted in and out among the battleships, the American Asiatic association being among those to give the heartiest welcome. Two thousand school children sang the American national anthem. The ships show the effect of the tremendous battering of the waves, which is described by old officials as the worst they have encountered. The Kearsarge, which got separated from the fleet, only picked up the others early Sunday morning, and is still undergoing repairs. Rear Admiral Sperry said immediately after anchoring that he was glad to arrive in Japan and that he greatly appreciated the evidences of a sincere welcome. Commander John A. Dougherty, the American naval attaché at Tokio, who came here to take part in the welcome to the fleet, boarded the Connecticut and discussed the program with the admiral.

The moment the fleet dropped anchor, the admirals in formal dress, hastened from the flagships of the various divisions to the flagship of the fleet, the Connecticut, which was also boarded by the Japanese subordinate officers who came to arrange details. Shortly the commander-in-chief and the other admirals accompanied by their staffs, entered a motor boat and proceeded to the flagship Mikasa of the Japanese fleet, to pay an official call upon Vice Admiral Sir Gero Ijuin. The Japanese admiral immediately returned the call. Vice Admiral Ijuin was given a hearty welcome by Admiral Sperry on board the Connecticut. After a brief visit the Japanese departed, and as they went down the side the Japanese flag was broken out at the mainmast and the guns belched forth a salute.

A short time later, Francis B. Loomis, United States commissioner to the Tokio exposition, accompanied by Mrs. Loomis, John C. O'Laughlin and Mrs. O'Laughlin and Acting Consul General Babbitt, called upon Rear Admiral Sperry and paid their respects. They were given fifteen guns as they left the ship. In the meantime visits were exchanged between the captains of all the vessels. The mayor and governor also called on the admiral and later the reception committee, the spokesman of which was M. Mate, boarded the Connecticut and bade the admiral and his men welcome in behalf of the entire nation. He thanked the Americans for their evidences of friendship and regard, to which Admiral Sperry responded in a similar strain.

In the afternoon the garden party given by the mayor of Yokohama was attended by many officers and great crowds of civilians, but the weather was unfavorable and somewhat interfered with the success of the function. Everywhere about the streets the American officers and men were treated with the greatest courtesy, being saluted always by the police and Japanese soldiers.

Crowds continued to swarm the streets about the water front all day, and at nightfall magnificent illuminations lit up the entire city. Electric lights and lanterns were swinging everywhere, and at a prominent point a huge design, in which the word "welcome" was spelled with brilliant lights, was surrounded by hundreds of American and Japanese flags. The lantern parade, in which there were many flower floats, made an inspiring spectacle as thousands upon thousands of the little Japanese in quaint costumes and bright colors took part.

All the Japanese ships were outlined in electric lights and each carried an American flag at its mainmast. Several dinners were given Sunday evening in honor of the American officers, and of which the mayor was host and Admiral Sperry the guest of honor. This was followed by a grand ball given by Governor Sufu of Managawa, at which 1,500 people were present. During the course of his speech at the dinner, Admiral Sperry said that the object of the cruise was the development of the fleet for peaceful purposes. He believed that nothing was ever likely to occur to break the traditional friendship of America and Japan.

BOON OF THE BALLOT DEMANDED BY WOMEN

Earnest Speakers Point Out
What They Could Thus Do.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 19.—What woman with the ballot in her hand could do toward alleviating the hardships and suffering in the industrial world, due to injustice and inequality, was told at an industrial mass meeting at the Star theater Sunday by delegates to the fortieth annual convention of the National American Women's Suffrage association. President Anna Shaw, in opening the meeting, said that every human being should be given the opportunity to toil; that God's greatest gift to the human race was when he sent man forth into the world to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow. "I believe in toil," said Miss Shaw, "and the dignity of labor, and I also believe in adequate compensation for work done."

Miss Jean M. Gordon, factory inspector for the parish of New Orleans, was introduced by President Shaw as an industrious young woman, whom the political ring of New Orleans sought to have removed, but who still retained her office, doing splendid work for the poor.

Harriet Stanton Blatch of New York made an eloquent plea for more attention to the industrial training of young girls who are going out into the world to work. She took exception to the expression "lower class," and said that some of the grandest characters she knew had the workshop for their alma mater, and the trades unions for a post graduate course.

The report of the committee on industrial problems affecting women and children was given by Florence Kelley of New York. She said in part:

"Votes for working women mean shorter hours. Eight hours for men, ten hours for children, unlimited hours for women—such is our practice today in an increasing number of states. Eight hours for all workers would do more to reduce tuberculosis than all the crusades against it that are going on in the world today."

"Working women have the working day of eight hours only in the four states in which they vote—Colorado, Idaho, Utah and Wyoming."

"Eight hours for men, ten for children, unlimited hours for women will continue in practice until working women themselves help to elect the judges who now annul the statutes enacted to protect women and children."

COMING BATTLE OF THE BALLOTS

Some Pointers Regarding the General Election.

DETAILS SET OUT BY STATES

General Elections Will Be Held in the Various States and in the Territories of Arizona and New Mexico on Nov. 3. Beside the Two Great Parties, the Prohibitionists, Socialists, Independents, Socialist Labor and Populist Parties Have an Interest in the Elections in a Number of the States.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Elections will be held in the various states and in the territories of Arizona and New Mexico on Nov. 3. Three states, Oregon, Maine and Vermont, have held their state elections, and have named members of the next congress—the Sixty-first. Arkansas and Georgia have named state officers only and will select congressmen at the coming election. In twenty-eight states governors or other state officers are to be elected; a number of these states will also elect members of the legislature. Six states will choose justices of the supreme court or minor state officers. In seven, congressmen only are to be elected, and in two, congressmen and a legislature only.

The terms of thirty-one United States senators, eighteen Republicans and thirteen Democrats, expire March 3, 1909. Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana and Maryland have chosen Democrats, and Kentucky a Republican, while Vermont has chosen a legislature which will name two Republicans. The present senate is composed of sixty-one Republicans and thirty-one Democrats.

Members of the national house of representatives are to be elected. Oregon, Vermont and Maine have already chosen Republican representatives. In some of the Southern states Democrats only have been nominated, while in others Prohibition, Socialist and Independence Party nominees will oppose Republicans and Democrats. The present house is composed of 391 members, 223 Republicans and 166 Democrats. There are two vacancies. South Carolina, as usual, has only one ticket—the Democratic—for state officers. Louisiana also has but one ticket—the Democratic. In this state, however, a justice of the supreme court and a railroad commissioner are the only state officers to be elected.

The Prohibition party has tickets in twenty-one states, the Socialist party in twelve, the Socialist Labor party in five, including Nebraska, where they have fused with the Democrats. The American party has one ticket in Utah.

In twenty-three states a total of ninety proposed constitutional amendments, laws, questions or propositions will be voted upon. This does not include Michigan, where a revision of the present constitution will be submitted to the voters for adoption or rejection. The amendments or proposed laws of several states are of general interest. In South Dakota the question of repealing the "one-year residence" act, which was passed by the last legislature in order to stop rapid divorces, will be submitted to the voters. Formerly suit for divorce could be brought after a six months' residence in the state. Opposition to this short term of residence resulted, and the one-year act was passed. The latter has been objected to in certain quarters, and petitions finally were secured for the submission of the one-year act to a vote of the people at the coming election.

In Illinois the question of a lake-to-the-gulf deep waterway will be before the people in the form of a constitutional amendment authorizing the state to issue bonds of $20,000,000 for the enterprise. A proposed income tax will be voted upon in four states—South Dakota, North Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

California is one of the latest of the states to agitate election reform. To the people there will be submitted a proposed constitutional amendment, among others, empowering the legislature to enact a direct primary law providing for the direct nomination of all candidates for public office.

Bryan Headed East.

St. Louis, Oct. 19.—William J. Bryan's final swing around the country, which will carry him to the Atlantic coast, was begun here when early this morning he made an extended speech previously to crossing the Mississippi and speaking to the employees of the National Stockyards at East St. Louis. From East St. Louis Mr. Bryan and party will travel in a special car for the balance of the trip, which will conclude at Lincoln on the night of Nov. 2. Accompanying him are Mrs. Bryan, Private Secretary Rose, Mayor F. W. Brown of Lincoln and four correspondents. Tonight Mr. Bryan is scheduled to make four addresses in Chicago, the day being spent in the delivery of rear-end speeches from his car, which will be attached to a regular Chicago & Alton train.

ON THE HOME STRETCH

Political Parties Now Exerting Every Energy.

New York, Oct. 19.—Putting forth their greatest efforts in the states that are called doubtful and pivotal, now that the presidential campaign is in its last week but one, the various party managers unfold a multiplicity of plans for the week that are well calculated to keep politics in the forefront of the news.

For Taft as well as for Bryan, the activity is to be well nigh ceaseless, as for Sherman and Kern and so on down the line.

Coming up from his invasion of the South, the Republican candidate for the presidency will speak in New Jersey in the fore part of the week and then return to his own state of Ohio for a day, thereupon making another flight into Indiana.

Bryan will have traveled in five states before the weeks ends—Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, West Virginia and New Jersey, finishing in New York, where he will spend Sunday in rest. His itinerary in Ohio was arranged with the special aim of enabling him to reach with his arguments practically the same people who heard Mr. Taft in his last tour there.

Mr. Sherman, the Republican candidate for the vice presidency, will speak in Wilmington, Del., today, and in Philadelphia Tuesday, and will devote the remainder of the week to meetings in New York state. Mr. Kern, the Democratic candidate for the vice presidency, will spend several more days in New York state. He expects to speak in Ohio on Thursday.

Governor Hughes of New York, who is campaigning for re-election and Lieutenant Governor Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, his Democratic opponent, will continue their speechmaking tours of the state.

Treasurer Ridder of the Democratic national committee, will make public on Tuesday an additional list of subscriptions to the fund of the party's campaign expenses. The Carnegie hall meeting in New York city on Tuesday, at which former members of the Cleveland cabinets, including Richard Olney of Boston and Judson Harmon of Ohio, are to speak, and the mass meeting also in New York city on Thursday night of Southern Democrats, which is to be addressed by Governor Swanson of Virginia, are other Democratic features for the week of national importance.

The week will be rich in speeches by members of Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet. Secretary of War Wright will be heard in New York city and other places and Secretary of Commerce and Labor Straus will spend the entire week on the stump, visiting Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis and Louisville.

FINDING AGAINST EVANS

"Fighting Bob's" Son Condemned by Court Martial.

Yokohama, Oct. 19.—Lieutenant Frank T. Evans of the battleship Louisiana, son of Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans, who recently was court-martialed on a charge of absenting himself from his post while officer of the deck, disrespect to his superior officers, and intoxication, has been found guilty of the two former charges. Rear Admiral Sperry received the papers while the battleships were at Manila and has just announced his verdict. The sentence pronounced provides that Lieutenant Evans shall lose 150 numbers and shall be publicly reprimanded. The commander-in-chief adds that in his opinion the sentence is inadequate, but has approved it in order that Evans shall not entirely escape punishment.

The President and Mr. Taft.

Washington, Oct. 19.—"I expect to be elected to the presidency," said Judge Taft, standing in the east room of the White House Sunday evening, facing thirty or forty newspaper men who had congregated to meet him after he had spent the day as President Roosevelt's guest. While not especially arranged for that purpose, the secretary found in his stop here a convenient opportunity for consultation with the president, his especial champion and chief adviser, and that both were pleased with the arrangement and made the most of it was made evident by the fact that they spent practically the entire day in the company of each other and for the most part with others excluded. After a full day at the White House, the Republican candidate said farewell to the president and Mrs. Roosevelt and went to the Union station, where he boarded the special train for Newark, N. J.

TWO PERISH IN FIRE AT SHIRLEY

Victor C. Pryor and Wife Burned to Death.

BLAZE IN BUSINESS SECTION

Caught by Flames Which Started in Their Restaurant and Which Spread So Rapidly They Were Unable to Escape, Victor Pryor and Wife Perish Miserably—Blaze With Which the Fire Department Was Unable to Cope Destroyed Twenty Business Houses.

Shirley, Ind., Oct. 19.—Victor C. Pryor and his wife were burned to death in a fire which destroyed part of the business section of Shirley. Their bones were found in the ruins of the fire by rescuers. Twenty business houses were destroyed.

The total loss will be $75,000, the property destroyed being several buildings on both sides of the street near the depot.

The fire started about 3 o'clock and burned fiercely until several buildings were destroyed within the next hour.

The Shirley fire department was unable to cope with the blaze. It was 7 o'clock before the fire was placed under control. The fire started at the rear of the Pryor restaurant in or near the kitchen.

GIRL'S STRANGE STORY

Says She Was Held Captive by a Confessed Thief.

Marion, Ind., Oct. 19.—When Harry Gibson, twenty-five years old, was arrested here for the theft of a quantity of shoes and leather from the Marion Shoe company, the officers learned for the first time that he held captive at his rooms in the Overman flats Miss Ola Teegarden, eighteen years old, of near Continental, Ohio—at least that is what she says. Miss Teegarden told an unusual story. She said she met Gibson in Continental and accompanied him here under threats. They walked from Bluffton, where his money for traveling expenses gave out.

Gibson and the Teegarden girl arrived in Marion two weeks ago. He obtained employment with the Marion Shoe company and soon afterward shoes and leather were taken. Gibson was not suspected of taking the articles until he tried to sell shoes and leather at the Samuel Foreman shoe shop. He was arrested and pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny before Judge Williams of the city court. He was sent to jail to await sentence in the circuit court. He says his home is in Maryland, but will not tell the officers just where. He says he saw service as a soldier in the Philippines. Arrangements are being made to send the Teegarden girl to her parents in Ohio. She says it was only because of fear that Gibson would shoot her that she consented to come to Marion and live with him.

Revolutionary Graves Marked.

Danville, Ind., Oct. 19.—The tablet erected in the north corridor of the courthouse in memory of the seventeen soldiers of the Revolution who are buried in Hendricks county was unveiled with appropriate ceremonies. The tablet was designed by Rudolph Schwarz, the artist, and is of bronze and is inscribed: "Erected by the Society of Sons of the Revolution in Indiana to the Memory of the Soldiers of the Revolution Buried in Hendricks County." It is the purpose of the society to erect a similar tablet in every county in Indiana where soldiers are buried.

He Had Been Drinking.

Shelbyville, Ind., Oct. 19.—James Cauley, a cigar maker, had his throat cut almost from ear to ear by George Moran. Moran is said to have been drinking. He was a blacksmith's helper, working for August Hirschauer, but was discharged. Cauley was sitting in a chair in the blacksmith's shop. Moran, thinking he was Hirschauer, drew a knife and cut him from behind. Cauley's condition is serious. Moran was arrested. Cauley's relatives live in Rushville.

Farmer Killed by Colt.

Decatur, Ind., Oct. 19.—Attacked by a yearling colt, Robert Peoples, aged sixty-seven, and one of Adams county's best-known men, was killed in his barnyard. He was making an effort to drive the colt into the barn when it turned and pounced on him, hurling him to the ground. Internal injuries caused his death.

Postoffice Robbers.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 19.—Robbers entered the postoffice at Jasper, worked the combination on the safe and obtained about $10 in money and over $100 in stamps.

Priest's Narrow Escape.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—An attempt to assassinate Rev. J. K. Fielding, pastor of the Corpus Christi Catholic church, was made Sunday afternoon. After twice ineffectually shooting at the priest in the Sunday school hallway of the church, the would-be assassin, thought to be a Greek or Italian, ran into the street and escaped.

WHY FARMERS SHOULD VOTE REPUBLICAN TICKET

Farm Lands and Farm Products Doubled in Prices in Twelve Years—Protective Tariff and Republican Policies Largely Responsible For Such Marvellous Prosperity.

The farmers of the country are the most favored class of all our people. During the last twelve years the value of their land and the value of their products have doubled. No such record is made in any other business in the world. And while the prices of their products have doubled, the cost of the things they buy is no more than in 1896. The markets will show that groceries (such as the farmer buys), dry-goods, clothing and agricultural implements are no higher now than twelve years ago. And while statistics are not at hand showing the prices of farm land, yet every owner of a farm knows that he can get twice as much for his farm now as during the last fatal administration of the Democratic party. But when it comes to the market of farm products, the statistics are easily at hand. Below will be found the quotations on farm products as found in the Indianapolis Journal of October 5, 1896, and in the Indianapolis News of October 5, 1908. In each column we give the top prices on each article. Let every farmer read and study these prices before casting his ballot in November. The prices of 1896 were the result of four years of free trade, incompetent Democratic rule.

The prices of 1908 follow twelve years of protective tariff, wise and capable Republican administration. Which do you prefer? Here are the figures:

	Oct. 5, 1896.	Oct. 5, 1908.
WHEAT	68c.	$ 1.00
CORN	24c.	78½c.
OATS	20c.	50½c.
HAY	$9.00	12.25
HOGS (top)	3.40	7.00
CATTLE (top)	4.65	7.00
HENS	6½c.	9c.
CHICKENS	6c.	12c.
TURKEYS	8c.	12c.
BUTTER	7½c.	14c.
EGGS	14c.	21c.

Careful estimate on the above figures will show that the farmers of Indiana have gained under Republican rule as follows:

Increase in Value of Land	$500,000,000
Annual Increase Farm Products	$200,000,000

Mr. Taft's logical mind would not arrive at the conclusion after his tour through Wisconsin, Minnesota, the two Dakotas and Nebraska that those states would remain safely Republican and that he will be elected president of the United States without having ample evidence to justify his belief. No man anywhere can look at all sides of an issue with clearer vision than William H. Taft. He has in an eminent degree the judicial temperament, the ability to give exact value to facts within his observation. He can discern the genuine feeling behind the hurrahs and the handshakes, and he has read his own election in the audiences which have turned out to greet him in his tour of the great northwest. Mr. Taft was doubtless certain to carry these states even if he had not visited them, but his personal presence, his practical presentation of the issues of the contest, which Bryan has sought by every shifty device to obscure, have served to make assurance doubly sure by bringing home alike to farmer and wage earner their direct personal interest in Republican success.

"His genial manner, his kind disposition and his intense sincerity," says Governor Sheldon of Nebraska, "have made a great impression on our people. Nebraska would have gone Republican anyway, but Judge Taft's visit has made the state thrice certain for him."

As in the northwest so it is in the middle west and the east, wherever American intelligence has had opportunity for direct knowledge of William H. Taft and of the issues of the campaign as presented by him. His sincerity, his human sympathy, his clear grasp of great national questions and his frankness in telling just where he stands on those questions command confidence, esteem and affection, and he gains his audiences, not by any trick of oratory, but by the open, manly presentation of facts and conditions as he sees them and as he proposes to deal with them if elected president of the United States. It is impossible to hear William H. Taft without being convinced that this is a true man, who understands the right and has the will and energy to do the right by every citizen without regard to differences in wealth or station. And not only the northwest, but every part of the United States, wants just that sort of man as successor to President Roosevelt.

Bryan Doesn't Want Them.
It is perfectly clear that if the sound money Democrats who revolted against the free silver movement have indulged the hope that Mr. Bryan would smooth the way for their return to the party fold by recanting his intolerable financial heresies they are merely building a colossal disappointment for themselves. There is not a shred of evidence to show that Mr. Bryan's feeling toward them has changed in the slightest degree since he said:

"They tell us that certain prominent financiers are going to leave the Democratic party because it declares for the restoration of silver. We shall not go into court to seek an order to prevent their going. The Democratic party has been weighed down by those who want to use the party organization for private gain and their country for public plunder."

Mr. Bryan has never had the slightest use for Democrats who refused to subscribe to his principles. He has repeatedly warned them that they were not wanted, that they should take their baggage along when they left the party and that they would find it much harder to get back than it was to get out. For daring to oppose his reckless purposes Democrats like Grover Cleveland, John G. Carlisle, Richard Olney, George Gray, John M. Palmer and Simon B. Buckner provoked Mr. Bryan's sneers and ridicule. He refused to recognize them as Democrats and denounced them as plutocrats using their country for public plunder.

Mr. Bryan is willing, of course, that the sound money Democrats shall vote for a free silver candidate this year, but if they do it must be with the distinct understanding that it is not he, but they, who have changed their views on the financial question. He wants their votes, but he does not want the sound money Democrats as members of the party in good standing. To recognize them as such would be to abandon his whole contention for free silver, and that, as he himself declares, he will never do.

Chairman Mack of the Democratic national committee insists that his first story to the effect that he had come into possession of a "left over" campaign fund of $300,000 was merely "a bluff." This explanation is equally true of the whole Bryan campaign.

"The gold standard," exclaims Mr. Bryan in his recorded sayings, "has killed its tens of thousands." Tens of thousands of what—demagogues, faddists or financial heretics?

Candidate Bryan has discovered that one end of the Roosevelt "big stick" is fitted with a particularly sharp and fluent pen.

Cheap.
Pat—This is a great country, Mary Ann. Mary Ann—And how's that? Pat—Shure, and the paper says yez can buy a five dollar money order at the postoffice for only 3 cints. O'im off after one now, wid the 3 cints yez give me for the soap.—Pathfinder.

More Than One.
"I remember your wife as such a dainty and pretty thing, Humily, and yet they tell me she has turned out a fine cook."

"Turned out a fine cook? She has turned out half a dozen of them within the last three months."

WORLD-WIDE PENNY POSTAGE

Made Possible by Recent Robust, Constructive Republican Policy.

Convention Between America and England in Effect Oct. 1—Its Blessings to Foreign Born Citizens.

ORDER NO. 1067.

The Postal Administration of Great Britain having concurred therein: It is hereby ordered, That, commencing on the 1st day of October, 1908, the postage rate applicable to letters mailed in United States, addressed for delivery at any place in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, shall be two (2) cents an ounce or fraction of an ounce.

Letters unpaid or short paid shall be dispatched to destination, but double the deficient postage, calculated at said rate, shall be collectible of the addressee upon the delivery of the unpaid or short paid letters.

G. V. L. MEYER, Postmaster General.

Behind this simple statement is a vast amount of Republican constructive legislation which resulted in the significant accomplishment, set forth by the Postmaster General. It is eloquently prophetic of a world-wide penny postage, for which the credit will be due to a Republican administration.

Sixth Universal Postal Congress.

The Sixth Universal Postal Congress convened in the city of Rome, Italy, April 7 and continued until May 20, 1906. Sixty-five countries, including the United States, were represented. The assembly was for the purpose of discussing the postal systems of all nations and, if possible, agreeing upon measures for the improvement in all practical ways, of the regulations governing international intercourse through the mails. The first congress of this kind met in Berne, Switzerland, in 1874.

The United States Postoffice Department was represented in this World Postal Congress by two delegates—the Superintendent of Division of Foreign Mails, as in previous postal congresses, and the Hon. Edward Rosewater of the Omaha Bee, who had also served in the preceding postal congress.

Move for Universal Penny Postage.

At this Universal Postal Congress representatives of the United States proposed a universal two-cent postage to all nations. The Hon. J. Henniker Heaton, M. P., who is the father of the two-cent idea in England, speaking of America's action at the Rome convention, in standing out for a universal two-cent postal rate, said:

"The British members stood coldly by. They did not recognize that this was a great historic occasion, a worthy parallel of that solemn scene on July 4, 1776, when the Declaration of Independence was adopted; for if the Americans are willing to adopt a penny postage to all parts of the world, it follows that they are willing to establish it to the British Empire and form with us a 'Restrictive Postal Union.'"

The Hon. Whitelaw Reid, America's Republican minister to the Court of St. James, praised the work of the American delegation and solicited the friendly co-operation of the British government at a Fourth of July banquet speech in London in 1906. Mr. Reid said:

"The American people hoped for closer and cheaper communications with all other nations as the best means of promoting better acquaintance and perpetuating friendship. They were gratified to find that the British apostle of penny postage (Mr. Heaton) at this moment focusing his efforts on what ought to be the easy task of persuading the authorities on both sides of the Atlantic, that it was as cheap to carry a letter from London to New York as from London to Calcutta; or from New York to Manila—and quite as useful."

American Republicans Lead the Way

So it has come to pass that the United States, under its Republican administration, has finally succeeded in entering into a convention with Great Britain whereby after the 1st of October this year, a two-cent postage rate will obtain between this country and England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales. We already have such an arrangement with Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Panama and our colonial possessions. This great accomplishment is universally recognized as the proper beginning which is to result in a universal two-cent postage rate around the world.

Important Things Accomplished.

Two other important things that the Republican administration accomplished at the Rome Universal Postal Congress through its representatives, must not be lost sight of. One was the adoption of a universal return coupon stamp, in exchange for which, upon its presentation at a postoffice in another country, the person presenting it shall receive a postage stamp of the value of 5 cents, good in any country of the world, thus enabling people here to prepay postage at regular rates upon reply letters.

The other significant concession was that in all World Postal Congresses to be held in the future, the United States is to be granted an additional vote, in view of its island possessions; so that at all future congresses our country will be entitled to two votes, as against one vote each cast by every other nation in the world.

Practical Benefits to the People.

No doubt the Democrats may inquire as to what all this has to do with the welfare of American citizens. For their enlightenment and information it may be stated that, according to the United States census of 1900, the foreign born population in the United States at that time was 10,460,085. The population, born of foreign parentage (one or both parents having been born in foreign countries) was 26,198,939, or a total foreign population of 36,659,024. The report of the Immigration Commissioner by years since then shows that 6,668,656 have since come to America, thus eking out the total foreign population at the present time to 43,327,680. This does not take any note of increase since 1900 in American-born children, one or both of whose parents are of foreign blood. Estimating that only one-half of this number—21,663,840—write one letter to foreign countries every two weeks, or 26 weeks each year, we have 120,983,040 letters written annually, which, at the present rate of 5 cents postage each, amounts to an expenditure of $6,499,152 annually. Under the present postal law foreign correspondents may send letters to the United States "collect," but when they reach their destination the recipient must pay double postage. Figuring the double postage on the same basis, the foreign population of the United States pays during each year, for postage under the present system, $19,497,450.

Under the new and cheaper postal charges advocated by the Republican party, should the 2-cent rate become universal, the foreign population in the United States, to their direct correspondents, would only pay $3,249,576 annually for direct postage and $9,748,728, for letters sent to them from foreign countries "collect." In other words, this Republican measure will save the highly esteemed adopted citizens of our country, and those born here of foreign parentage $12,998,254 annually, in the necessary correspondence with their loved ones abroad. But perhaps the Democrats do not think this is worth while.

Some Glaring Inconsistencies.

At present an American can send a letter 5,000 miles by land—say from Mexico to Alaska—for 2 cents, but must pay 5 cents for a letter of half the weight sent 3,100 miles to England. An Englishman pays 5 cents on a letter crossing the Atlantic, 3,100 miles, and 2 cents on one crossing the Indian and South Pacific Oceans, 16,000 miles, to New Zealand. All this is to be remedied on October the first next, thanks to an enlightened Republican administration.

World Is Ready for Reduction.

It will probably be but a short time after the convention between this country and England goes into effect, until the dream of a universal 2-cent letter postage, championed by the Republican party, will be realized. Australia, New Zealand and Egypt have already called for the 2-cent rate. The Emperor of Germany has said that if England establishes a 2-cent postage rate with the United States, he will have Germany do the same. France, Italy, South Africa, Japan, Belgium, Holland, Denmark and Sweden would need little more than an invitation to follow suit.

A 2-cent postal rate would bind all the South American republics and the United States still more closely together into a peaceful, reciprocal, progressive, civilization, which would mean a more rapid development of both American continents and a new application of the Monroe doctrine. With these countries agreed, on the object desired, the continent of Europe alone would then be wholly outside this comprehensive postal union and then the continental powers would not long stand aloof from it.

It has remained for the United States to take the initiative in a move to reap the great glory of being the pioneers of a world wide 2-cent postage. Millions of our citizens will feel almost as grateful for this beneficent act as millions of slaves did, when the Republican party broke the shackles that bound them to perpetual physical services.

BRYAN'S POLICIES DESTRUCTIVE.

Mr. Taft Compares Republican and Democratic Platforms.

(From Mr. Taft's Speech of Acceptance.)

The chief difference between the Republican and the Democratic platforms is the difference which has heretofore been seen between the policies of Mr. Roosevelt and those which have been advocated by the Democratic candidate, Mr. Bryan. Mr. Roosevelt's policies have been progressive and regenerative. Mr. Bryan's destructive. Mr. Roosevelt has favored regulation of the business in which evils have grown up so as to stamp out the evils and permit the business to continue. The tendency of Mr. Bryan's proposals has generally been destructive of the business with respect to which he is demanding reform. Mr. Roosevelt would compel the trusts to conduct their business in a lawful manner and secure the benefits of their operation and the maintenance of the prosperity of the country of which they are an important part; while Mr. Bryan would extirpate and destroy the entire business in order to stamp out the evils which they have practiced.

All that Mr. Bryan needs is time in order to be able to answer all of his own arguments.

Mr. Bryan is denouncing the Roosevelt policies in the East and claiming shelter to them in the West. Mr. Bryan's paramount this year is, "Anything to win."

Mr. Taft believes in the immediate establishment of the postal savings-banks system. Mr. Bryan favors the postal saving bank system, but wants it adopted only after the bank deposit guaranty fallacy has been tried and exploded.

The war cloud in the near East seems to be passing away. In all likelihood the crisis will end in the recognition by the powers of the independence of Bulgaria and in permitting Austria to absorb Bosnia and Herzegovina. The wounded pride of Turkey and the sensitiveness of Serbia will probably be allayed by a money indemnity or the floating of a loan on liberal terms. It is wonderful how the outraged feelings and honor of both individuals and nations can be soothed and vindicated by money.

The public schools of Porto Rico have opened for the term with an enrollment of 95,000. There are 1575 schools and 1650 teachers. The school appropriation is $1,429,590. The figures give an indication of the development that has taken place since the American occupation in 1898, when there were 525 schools, with an enrollment of 25,000 and the appropriation was $285,000. Educational facilities have now been extended to all parts of the island. The Porto Ricans can indeed be grateful that the American eagle has swooped down upon them.

WAR ON FAKE "MEDIUMS."

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 19.—A determined warfare on fake "mediums" and "psychic" charlatans will be inaugurated by the National Spiritualists' Association, according to influential leaders of the cult who are here today to take part in this week's convention of the organization.

CONDEMN ILLINOIS RIOTS.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Resolutions condemning the recent Springfield riots and the racial animosities which cause such outbursts will probably be passed by the American Missionary Association at its meeting in Galesburg this week, according to prominent Chicago members. The association maintains many schools and churches in the South for the benefit of the negroes.

The simple cost of setting up in type a new edition of the Bible amounts to $5000.

POLITICS IN TABLOID FORM

The voters of Rush county are too intelligent to be dominated by the saloon element. In this day and age the farmers are the wisest students of politics, for they read and digest everything that comes their way. Now watch how they will vote!

Are the farmers opposed to the high prices they have received for their products?

The Democrats never did conduct an economical or business-like administration. Even in Rush county the Democratic townships are the extravagant and high-tax townships. "Open the Books!"

Local Democratic would-be leaders, when they fall hard from their political perch, will resort to the scorpion's method of suicide by biting themselves.

Will the saloon men keep their stock in the local Democratic organ after the election is over? Two of them have already said they would sell if the Democrats were unsuccessful. (N. B.—The stock will be for sale.)

Publicity of campaign methods. Will the Democratic organ dare publish a list of their stockholders?

The Prohibitionists of Rush and Shelby county, and the Democrats and Republicans who desire to see the laws enforced, will not cast their votes for John Cheney, the Democratic candidate, who is a former Greenfield saloon keeper and who was repeatedly indicted in the Hancock circuit court.

Every honest individual stands for a clean election and a pure ballot, but they do not believe in drawing up agreements with men who violated the same two years ago. Individuals found violating the election laws will be vigorously prosecuted.

Just two weeks more of up-roar-slashing, snorting, fire-eating, cut-and-slash, hell-vent, noisy discharge of the oratorical guns.

A vote for Will Jay and Senator E. E. Moore means to keep the county option bill on the statute books.

Superintendent Headlee has hundreds of Democratic friends in Rush county who resent the vicious attack made on him by the insane Democratic press in Rushville. Sensible people do not approve of such tactics. And again, it was cowardly, the man attacked being away from his health.

A vote for Senator Moore means a vote for Beveridge and Hemenway. Mr. Moore will have an opportunity to vote for both of these gentlemen during his term, if elected.

It is estimated that Barnard's plurality over Kuhn in the Sixth district will be from 5000 to 8000.

We ask the people of Rush county to sit in judgment on the behavior of the two party organs here. The Daily Republican has never uttered one word of personal abuse against our fellow townsman, Frank J. Hall, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor. Quite the contrary, for we have said that he was a whole-souled, generous, honest, upright, sober, clean conscientious citizen. We were the first to announce his candidacy and we commended him in the highest terms to the Democratic State convention in articles that were published throughout the Democratic press of the State. On the other hand, the local Democratic organ, conducted by a lot of inexperienced, incapable men, have not stopped at anything in their abuse of our fellow townsman, Jas. E. Watson, when the Republicans of Indiana have honored him with the nomination for governor. Malicious and calumnious lies were told about him. He was said to be a man who could deliver a gem of a prayer in his home church here, but in Indianapolis, Evansville and other points his associates were questionable characters. That $65,000 illegitimately had come into his possession and no end of slurring and damnable lies were uttered against him. Had they been men of intelligence, they would have realized that such tactics do not win. People living here well know the lives of the two candidates. But we ask, which method do the people approve of? Which publication has displayed the true spirit of gentlemen and neighbors, and which the spirit of a carter-tongued, jealous rowdy?

William Howard Taft, the next president of the United States, will be in Rushville next Friday evening and will deliver a brief speech from the rear of his special train. Judge Taft will arrive here at 5:55 in the evening and will remain about twenty minutes.

The big Republican day in Rush county will be Saturday, October 31, when "Our Own Jim" Watson will deliver a speech here. John L. Griffith will also speak, and an old-fashioned all-day rally will be given.

The barn-door size posters put up by the brewers and distillers indicate the desperate straits to which these industries are driven by the determination of the people, regardless of party, to banish the evils of the liquor traffic.

A local Democratic attorney has written a letter to National Chairman Hitchcock, saying he will not contribute to the Republican national campaign fund, and takes occasion to write about ten pages of Mss. setting forth the reasons. Of course, he letter will never get any closer to Hitchcock than the first assistant keeper of the waste basket, but wouldn't Mr. Hitchcock be the angry and deeply chagrined to think a Rushville lawyer was "taking him over the coals?"

When you cast your vote for Senator Moore at this election, you are voting to send Beveridge and Hemenway back to the United States senate. Or do you want to send Tom Taggart, of French Lick, and the corporation infant, John Lamb, of Terre Haute?

Cary Jackson sang his own requiem when he remarked to his seat mate, a Democratic legislator, that he lost all hope of re-election when he cast his vote against the county option bill. Cary was wise enough to know that the people of Rush county would not tolerate brewery rule.

What would be more dastardly than a malicious attack on a dying man who was not here to defend himself against the cowardly thrust? We had hoped he would never hear of it, but friends of Supt. W. O. Headlee are insisting that he bring a suit for libel against the Democratic organ in Rushville.

The Democratic organ will play its last tune before November closes, and the happy farm hands and school teachers will sing their swan song and get back in the groove where they fit. Their performances can truly be called a comedy and tragedy of errors.

Quite a number will go to Connersville tonight on the I. & C. to hear Watson.

Benjamin L. Bruner, secretary of the State of Kentucky, will speak at the Republican headquarters here next Wednesday night. At the big Republican love feast in Indianapolis two years ago, Mr. Bruner was voted the most eloquent orator in attendance. It will do you good to hear this learned and entertaining southern gentleman.

From Our Abie Corps of Special Writers' Including "One-Eye-Open," Old Eagle Eye and Crabapple Charley.

Tailholt.

Lizzie Hoplight is getting her soprano voice cultivated for opery.

Cyrenius Hybarger and his oldest daughter have commenced digging potatoes.

Mose Updyke's wife's stomach has become much inflated of late from too much indulgence in pig's feet.

Dug Lottis, one of our fiery Democratic lawyers, has written Republican National Chairman Hitchcock a warm epistle, scorching him and taking him over the coals in great shape. Hitchcock will probably not be able to eat any for a week or two—though he like as not gets 5000 such letters as Dug's every day. All the boys here are shaking Dug's hand for this daring piece of work. He's a good one. Stay with 'em, Dug.

The Bixler boys are laid up with the mumps which is a blessed relief to our citizens. Doc Reed thinks he can keep 'em at home for a couple of weeks and their devilry will certainly be missed for a while anyhow.

The Tailholt Bugle announces that preacher Lige McSwatt has received some warm winter underwear from his old friend, Joe Hennings, the Anderson tavern keeper. Joe buys sample undershirts and drawers from drummers every fall and sends them to Lige and his wife. Sometimes they are too big and a trifle baggy, but they shrink to beat the band.

West Newton.

Pete Slocum is being urged by his friends, mostly relations, to run for constable. Many think Pete's too bowlegged to make much of a run.

Punk Jones and Minervy Flickey rode over to Bean Creek last Sunday on horseback. Minervy rode straddle and looked quite comical as she is quite shortwaisted.

Rev. Columbus Pike of the Colored Hardshell church in Mudsock, has received a call to take charge of the Mud Creek congregation with a seven-dollar increase of salary.

Abe Gullett, Mart Buster and Aunt Jane Plunkett have been appointed on a committee to invite Preacher McSwatt to preach next Sunday on the "Probable Son." The Hardshell congregation is much stuck on Lige's favorite sermon.

Bell's Puddle.

Silas Butterworth and Cynthia Pettigill are expected to splice before cold weather sets in.

Josh Spooner is keeping company with Gil Huffstetter's old-maid sister, Liz. Liz is subject to fits and Josh has cramp colic about every other week.

Lizzie Junkins will give a barn dance horse show week.

Abe Bullived says he haint goin to vote for Judge Barnard cause he got sick on Quaker oats once.

The late frost has about exterminated the chigger and the chigger-proof underwear can now be dispensed with. These pests were uncommonly bold during the picnic season.

The wife of a Mudsock capitalist says she is going to build a condition to her residence so she can ascertain her friends with more hostility. She will also have a purgatory on top of the house, a pizaro in front, and a memorandum all lit up with indecent lights for them to lemonade on.

OLD EAGLE EYE.

NIPPING A CAREER.

Young W. S. Gilbert's Brief Interview With Charles Kean.

At the early age of fifteen, according to the author of a biography of Sir W. S. Gilbert, the future dramatist showed his theatrical bias to his own undoing.

Enraptured with a splendid performance of "The Corsican Brothers" at the Princess theater, then under the management of Charles Kean, young Gilbert packed up a few clothes in a hand bag and actually succeeded in making an entrance to the theater with a view to going on the stage. Greatly elated at receiving the message that Kean would see him in his room, the boy lost courage when he was face to face with the great actor.

"So you would like to go on the stage?" said Kean.

"Yes, sir," replied Master Gilbert, trembling in every limb.

"What's your name?"

The boy's imagination failed him at a critical moment in his life. "Gilbert," he faltered, seeking refuge in the truth.

"Gilbert, Gilbert!" reiterated Kean, with a sharp glance at the embarrassed boy. "Are you the son of my old friend, William Gilbert?"

"Yes," Kean turned to an attendant. "See this young gentleman home," said he.

THE UPPER AIR.

Danger In the Chiff That Comes With the Fall of Night.

Few people who visit Denver realize that it is located only a few feet short of a mile above the sea level. At such altitudes the climate is always treacherous. The midday sun may be broiling hot, but after dark the air is soon chilled and one is liable to contract a cold.

Several of the Spanish cliffs stand upon the crests of tall hills, where such climatic changes occur after nightfall. When, as a boy at the grand opera, I saw Spaniards in "Carmen" or "The Barber of Seville" toss their long cloaks or capes about their faces I assumed that the act was intended to disguise them to hide their faces. Nothing of the sort. The Spaniard, like the Italian of the Alpine regions, always covers his mouth after sundown to minimize danger to his lungs from the night air.

Curiously the women haven't any fear of the chill that follows the darkness. They may be seen in low cut bodices at all hours of the evening in the cafes, at balls and on the streets. The men, however, are in terror of cold night winds. Pneumonia and tuberculosis carry off a great many victims in Spain and northern Italy.—Julius Chambers in Brooklyn Eagle.

Not a Dead One.

The hour was long past midnight, but the young girl had not yet retired. Moaning, wringing her hands, she walked the room distractedly.

"Oh, father!"

A stately, white haired figure in evening dress had entered.

"Father, speak. Has Winterbottom Hance killed himself? I heard a commotion without at midnight—a crack as of a revolver, a fall as of a heavy body. I refused Winterbottom early in the evening, and as he staggered from the room, despair writ large upon his pale brow, he swore wildly to take his own life."

The old man's eye gleamed as with some secret joy.

"Refused him, did you?" he chuckled. "Refused Winterbottom, eh? Well, I'm glad you did. He's just cleaned me out of $7 in a poker game at the club."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Legend of Moses.

The story of the cause of Moses' slowness of speech is given in the Talmud and runs as follows: Pharaoh was one day sitting on his throne with Moses on his lap when the child took off the king's crown and put it on his own head. The "wise men" tried to persuade the king that this was treason, for which the child ought to be put to death, but Jethro replied: "It is the act of a child who knows no better. Let two plates be set before him, one containing gold and the other red-hot coals, and you will find he will prefer the latter to the former." The experiment being made, the child snatched up one of the live coals, put it into its mouth and burned its tongue so severely that it was ever after "heavy and slow of speech."—New York American.

Bee Economics.

The organization of bee life is a fascinating study. The workers in a beehive may be divided, says the University Correspondent, into (1) harvesters, who bring in honey and pollen from flowers, wax from buds of pines and poplars, water to mix with pollen and honey to make the paste food for the larvae; (2) scavengers, who in early morning carry out debris, including dead, sick or injured workers; (3) ventilators, who stand erect and keep their wings in continual movement in order to ventilate the hive; (4) guards, who defend the hive from wasps, robber bees and other enemies.

THIS MATTER OF SMOKE.

We are sure that our view of the cigar business is unusual. Most druggists and all cigar dealers sell cigars to make money. We sell them to make friends—and money too in the long run. We want to get smokers into the store and let them judge what kind of a business we conduct by the kind of a cigar they get. In cigars as in drugs we get the best that money can buy.

AMUSEMENTS

W. F. Mann, the producer of "The Fighting Parson," from the pen of Lem B. Parker, offers something out of the usual run of melodrama. The play deals with the turbulent strife of a young minister trying to better the conditions of the foreign element in the slum districts of our large cities.

The ignorance, poverty and prejudices he encounters would discourage a less determined man and compel him to hunt pastures less strenuous, but opposition seems only to arouse this young minister to greater efforts. Mr. John A. Preston has been secured to create and play the role of "The Fighting Parson" to be seen here Thursday, October 22, at the Grand.

SATURDAY.

Annual automobile race for the Vanderbilt Cup will be run on Long Island.

James Schoolcraft Sherman, Republican vice-presidential candidate, will observe 83d birthday.

Women in England.

In the seventeenth century, when Englishwomen were still recognized as possessing an economic and political status side by side with Englishmen, there was written an interesting entry in the church warden's accounts of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, proving that one Elizabeth Bartlett was intrusted with the casting of the second bell and that all the women employed thus were paid at the same rate as men for the same work. Another instance is to be found in the records of the Fleet prison, of which the first female warden, appointed in 1217 on the death of her husband Robert, received the same salary "as the said Robert had been accustomed to during his life." There was no talk then of confining the woman's sphere to work that was paid badly.

Quieting Him Down.

A farmer sued a cattle dealer for damages in the local county court.

"When I bought the bull," said the complainant, "he told me it was gentle and perfectly harmless—a child could play with it, in fact. Half an hour after I got the animal home he disabled a couple of my farm hands and then turned on me."

"Perhaps the animal was excited by his strange surroundings," suggested his honor. "Is he quiet enough now?"

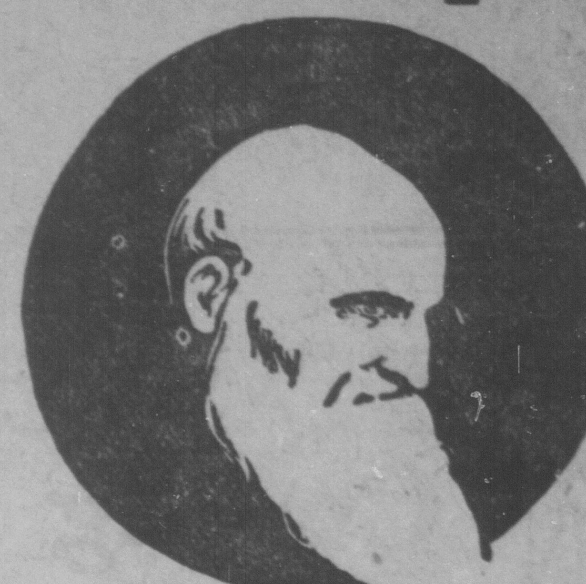

"Well, yes; but you see—"

"Ah," remarked the defendant, "then my description was correct, after all. I said if he did get excited at first he would quiet down."

"Yes," responded the plaintiff grimly, "but you didn't tell me I should have to shoot the beggar to quiet him down. That's what I had to do!"—London Scraps.

Malaprops.

The pious old lady who, returning from a visit to the zoo, announced that she "always did enjoy a visit to the theological gardens" and the servant who, describing her master's last illness, explained that the "doctors held a consolation and found that it was something eternal" have found a recent equal in the lady who observed that when she was in Italy she "saw so many people in the carriage of monks with tonsils on their heads."

Veterinaries.

Hippocrates, the "father of medicine," wrote a treatise on the veterinary art, but its true founder was Vegetius, who wrote "De Arte Veterinaria," 300 A. D. But the first attempt to elevate the practice into a science was as late as 1761, when France set the example of establishing the first veterinary college at Lyons.—Exchange.

Heavily Laden.

"This play in its intensity," said the go-out-between-the-acts young man, "fairly takes my breath away."

"I only wish it would!" gloomily remarked the lady in the next seat.—Baltimore American.

Archimedes. As a mechanician Archimedes produced the correct theory of the lever and invented no less than forty interesting devices, including the endless screw, the pump, the organ and the "burning glass," with which latter novel weapon he is said to have set fire to the ships of an enemy's fleet from a considerable distance. The story is probably fabulous, but none the less interesting, as exhibiting the faith of the people in the man and as indicating the character of his pursuits. As engineer Archimedes was looked upon as hardly less than a magician. He produced catapults which threw enormous stones and heavy pikes at long range into the ranks of the enemy or into his ships, and great derricks were built by him with which to lift the attacking craft out of water or to upset it, destroying all on board. His proposed use of the lever meant the production of the inconceivable inventions in machinery and engineering construction, and his own estimate of its importance was expressed by the familiar quotation, "Give me whereon to stand and I will lift the earth." Archimedes was the first and perhaps the most inventive and greatest of early engineers. His lever still moves the world, and his spirit is inherited by generations of the men who have made modern civilization possible.—Cassier's Magazine.

The Turks and Raki.

"Turks often get drunk. They cheat their religion, the dogs, to do so," said a converted Constantinopolitan.

"Mohammed forbade wine to his followers, but raki is made of mastic gum. It was unknown in Mohammed's time, or of course he'd have forbidden it, too, for you can get frightfully drunk on it. I know; oh, I know! It's a white drink, with a sweetish taste, a good deal like gin.

"A Turkish dinner is mostly a vegetarian affair, if you can call raki a vegetable. It consists of such things as laort, a curdled milk speed and scented and baklava cakes cooked in honey, sprayed with rosewater and coated with saffron flavored whipped cream.

"With each course you drink raki. If, getting drunk, you get miserable the thing to do is to crush your glass in your hand so as to give yourself two or three cuts. Unhappy Turks, you must know, express their wretchedness by cutting their hands. Look at these scars."—Minneapolis Journal.

Lady Betty Across the Water

By C. N. & A. M. WILLIAMSON * COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY McCLURE, PHILLIPS & CO.

When we had been for about an hour and a half in the big shop, we'd finished all we had to do there and must motor to another farther up, before meeting Mr. Parker, who was to give us lunch at a place called Sherry's, at 1 o'clock. On the way, Sally suddenly exclaimed, "Oh, Cousin Katharine, we must initiate this dear child into the mysteries of ice cream soda water, and I'm just yearning for some myself, anyhow."

Mrs. Ess Kay gave the direction to her mechanician, a very young man with eyes that looked positively ill with intelligence and a way of snapping out "all right" when she spoke to him that would make Stan sit up with surprise if his chauffeur did it.

Sally said that the nicest oasis in the desert of London was an American place where you can get ice cream soda water, but I had never had any, and in the burning heat of the New York morning, which flung itself into the shop, like a great wave in spite of fierce electric fans, I could have purred in pure delight over the piled up ice cold froth in that tall glass. It tasted like frozen velvet flavored with strawberries, and I should have loved to be an ostrich or an anaconda, so that the sensation might have lasted longer.

There were no men in the shop, only women, and so pretty that you wondered if there were a notice posted up over the door forbidding plain ladies to enter. Two or three had yellow hair, yellow than mine, and Mrs. Ess Kay said they were actresses, who always came back to New York in summer to wait for tins to turn up, just as chickens come home to roost, and that they were supposed to be resting.

I had always thought that a banana made you feel more as if you had eaten a large, elaborate dinner than any other one thing possibly could, but I found that an ice cream soda is even more so, and it was lucky for us that we had another hour's shopping to do (Mrs. Ess Kay made it an hour and a half because Potter is only her brother) before luncheon.

The next shop was even more wonderful than the first and would have been a great deal more solemn and dignified and even conventional if the same kind of wooden bills hadn't gone tearing round like mad squirrels in wire cages over the counters with people's money shut up inside them. There were very young youths sitting in tall pulpit things, who caught the balls on the fly in a sporting way and did something to them, but I never could see what, and afterward sent them back with the greenback bills inside turned miraculously into silver and pretty miniature pennies.

When we got to Sherry's, Potter was waiting for us and looking cross. I think persons with turned up noses show crossness more easily than the other kind, and Potter had the expression in his eyes that Vic has when her shoes are tight and mother is in a trying mood at the same time. I shouldn't be surprised if he has a horrid temper, although he thinks of so many funny things. And though he is so nice to me, he can't help saying things sometimes which show that he has a prejudice against England. That seems extraordinary, and shows one how conceited we English really are, for one is quite accustomed to the idea that there may be people who don't care for Americans, but it is odd that Americans may not like us. I suppose it's on a par with the sentiments in our national anthem, which when one comes to analyze them don't exactly suggest a sense of give and take—or, for that matter, a sense of humor.

"Confound their politics, frustrate their knavish tricks," but naturally bless everything in which we are concerned, as we are certain to be above reproach. I'm afraid that's quite of a piece with the calm confidence we have in our own superiority, although I dare say I should never have realized it if it weren't for Mr. Potter Parker and his perky nose.

It began to be less perky when we were all settled at a table in a perfectly charming restaurant, the most restful place to eat in that I ever saw. I can't imagine even a fiend being ill tempered in it for long, and it was deliciously cool, as if we had come into a shadowy green wood after the blazing, brassy glare of the streets.

The big room really was rather like a wood, so the simile isn't farfetched—an open space in a wood, ringed around with tall trees bending their branches low over a still pool. The soothing brown of the wainscoted walls gave the tree trunk effect; the great hanging baskets of ferns and moss that swung from the ceiling were the tree branches, and the many round, snow white tables with green velvet chairs grouped closely around them on the polished floor were the water lilies with green pads floating on the surface of the pond.

Nearly everything we had for lunch was in a more or less advanced state of frozenness, from the bouillon, ever so far along to the ices in the shape of different colored fruits, toward the end. Nevertheless, all of us, except Potter, drank iced water instead of wine whenever we stopped eating for an instant or couldn't think of anything particular to say, and the more we had the more we seemed to want. There was a kind of iced water curse upon us.

It has never occurred to Vic or me to lie down in the afternoon, though she tries to sleep a little sometimes if she's going to a ball. But when we got home, Mrs. Ess Kay and Sally took it quite as a matter of course that we would lie down before going to Coney Island to dine and see fireworks and other things. They were surprised when I didn't want to, but Mrs. Ess Kay said in that case Potter would entertain me while they rested. I told her it wasn't necessary, but Potter wanted me to bet my sweet life that it was just the one proposition on earth for him, so he and Vivace and I sat in the fountain court while Mrs. Ess Kay and Sally went upstairs.

Potter was suddenly a changed man, as soon as he and I were alone together, becoming exactly what he had been yesterday when I first ran downstairs and he introduced himself.

He didn't chaff me about my country and make fun of our government or hint that American men were the only men living who knew how to treat women, as he seemed to delight in doing when his sister and cousin were with us. He began by offering to teach me some of his best slang, but as the lesson went on, it turned out to be rather more like a lesson in flirtation.

I would have been even more startled than I was, if I hadn't already had a little experience on board ship with Mr. Doremus. At home I've often thought it must be very pleasant to be out and able to flirt, but I never had a chance, because, as Vic said, it was her turn first, and the only young man, not a relation, that I ever talked with alone was the curate, who would as soon have tried to flirt with a bishopess as with one of mother's daughters.

But I like Mr. Doremus' kind of flirtation almost better than Mr. Parker's. Mr. Doremus makes you feel as if you were a beautiful young heroine in a play, and you are almost sorry there is no audience to applaud the witty things he says, and the smart answers he inspires you to think of, just as if he were giving you a cue.

Potter is different, and instead of an audience you want a kind of perpetual chaperon, not a Briareus creature with lots of hands to applaud.

It is silly, I know, to blush and simmer, but I couldn't think of anything else to do. Potter was so alarming, and I wouldn't allow him to tell my fortune by my hand, for it was much too hot. Even if it hadn't been I shouldn't have wanted my hand held, for I do hate being touched by any one I'm not fond of. When I told him that he said it was very simple. What I had to do was to get fond of him, and then it would be all right.

"I shan't have time," I said. "There'll be too much for me to think about, and then I shall be going home."

"How long does it take an English girl to get fond of a man?" said he.

I told him I didn't know anything about that, as I wasn't out, but I supposed it depended on the kind of girl. "I guess it depends more on the man in your climate, doesn't it?" asked Potter. "But over here it's sometimes a question of hours for both sides. Why, a chum of mine went out to San Francisco on business which was going to keep him just one day. He met a girl at dinner, fell in love with her while she was eating her soup and told her so before dessert came along. She vacillated over the ice cream, but said yes with the peaches and pears. Next day they got married, and he brought her back east for a wedding trip."

"What did they do about the banns?" "Oh, Americans have done away with banns since the Revolution, I guess. When we fellows fall in love we're in a hurry."

"Marry in haste, repent at leisure," I quoted primly.

"We don't repent. We just get a divorce. It saves worry. Incompatibility of the affections or fatty degeneration of the temper or something like that—but I don't need to talk of such things to you. Nobody who got a prize package like Lady Betty Bulkeley would part with it while he had a button left on his coat."

I sat in the fountain court.

"I don't see what buttons would have to do with it," I said, but as I had always been sent out of the room at home directly any one began even to mention divorce, I thought I had better go upstairs and dress for dinner at Coney Island. Mr. Parker begged me not, but I would, and Vivace barked as if he were under the impression that he was a watchdog, so thanks to him I got away without trouble.

NEW HEALTH PROJECT

National Reform Movement is Started in Boston.

TO ATTACK EVIL AT ITS ROOT

Miss S. J. Hughes Wants Vacancy Commissions Established in Large Cities—Each Empty House to Be Inspected Before Occupancy and All Danger of Disease Removed.

A movement to lay the foundation of a national reform in all large cities was recently started in Boston with the object of promoting health in a new and original way, which starts at the root of an evil and is generally combated effectively.

Miss Sarah J. Hughes of the Back Bay section of Boston, a woman of extraordinary energy and intimately acquainted with those perplexing questions and conditions which are a constant source of anxiety to boards of health, has conceived a plan for the establishment of vacancy commissions in Boston, New York and Philadelphia as the starting points of a national work. These vacancy commissions are to be composed of a physician at the head, a trained nurse of high standing, a public spirited and practical lodging house keeper and a real estate woman of philanthropic character, says a Boston correspondent of the Philadelphia Record. Their powers, to be conferred either by city or state, will be such as to give them authority to enter all vacant houses, inspect them and order them put into a condition before occupancy that will preclude all danger of disease.

Miss Hughes has discovered that landlords are in the habit of giving only a superficial cleaning to vacant tenements and houses, that new layers of wall paper are laid over the old layers, that germs are so thick on the inside of the rank paper that they can be seen with the microscope and that crannies and crevices where disease lurks are utterly neglected, not being given even a hot water and soap treatment when bichloride is an absolute necessity. No less than ten layers of paper have been found by Miss Hughes in Brookline, Mass., the richest town in the world, while five and six layers are common all over Boston in homes supposed to be far better than lodging and tenement houses. Observation has proved, according to Miss Hughes, that disease and death have their origin in such conditions, where the parsimony and shortsightedness of landlords permit only superficial cleaning that looks well to the eye at first, but which covers only a whitened sepulcher.

Miss Hughes has found that the two most prevalent diseases arising from these insanitary methods are consumption and diphtheria. She has kept close track of houses where the landlords would neither make the necessary changes nor permit new tenants to make them, with the conclusion formed in an array of astounding facts and figures proving that disease has followed almost invariably and inevitably; hence the advocacy of vacancy commissions. Mayor George A. Hibbard of Boston has lent a willing ear to the propaganda, while aldermen and councilmen are greatly impressed. Others have joined in the new movement, and the plan is to follow the Boston work with similar establishments in New York and Philadelphia, finally making it national in character.

Miss Hughes would have all the halls painted from attic to coal scuttle. She would tear off the layers of paper to the plaster and have it carried off in barrels. She would have the walls treated with hot water and soap, followed by bichloride, until there could be no chance for germs to remain, and in this way she claims a vast proportion of sickness would be prevented.

Miss Hughes is a sister of the celebrated physician and surgeon, Dr. Laura A. C. Hughes, who delivered two addresses before the American Medical association at Chicago last June and who won distinction in the Spanish-American war.

Reads Dramatic Failures.
It was not until 1855, when Charles Reade was forty-two, that he obtained reputation as a novelist, a reputation to which he did not aspire, for it was his ambition to be a dramatist. From the beginning of his career until the last year of his life he wrote play after play, every one of them a failure and he alone refusing to believe it. He attributed their want of success to every cause but the right one, and he went on squandering the money gained from his more successful novels on the production of bad plays. "The actors are duffers, sir," he would say, "who have defiled my composition, mixed ditch water with my champagne, murdered my work," and he would pour out maledictions on the heads of all who had anything to do with the unfortunate piece, from scenic artist to super, never conceiving that he himself was the sole culprit. And yet, as his novels show, he had dramatic ability of a high order and could produce the most thrilling effects and situations. He wrote two or three dramas in collaboration with Tom Taylor and Dion Boucicault that had a brief success, but apart from these he never wrote a play that met with the slightest degree of popular favor.

Poultry Fakes.
"Oh, yes," said the poultry farmer, "there are tricks in every trade! Take, for instance, this old rooster here." The rooster was old. There was no denying it. He was as tough an old rooster as ever graced the summer boarders' table of a New England farm.

"Take this old rooster," said the farmer, seizing a paint brush. "Black up his feet. Then break his breast-bone, so, with a long pair of scissors. Then push the breast up high. What's the result? A fine young turkey's the result, and knowing housewives will scramble over one another to buy him."

With a harsh laugh the farmer turned to a skeleton chicken. "This bird is a regular skeleton, isn't she?" he said. "Now watch me. See, I lay her on her back. Then I place this heavy board on her breast. Then tomorrow when I come to take her to market the board will have made her scraggy breastbone almost invisible. And it will have given her very full, plump sides—no breastbone, fat sides—the sure signs of a fat and tender young chicken."

An Unobserving Thief.
Yosouf owned a beautiful horse which was very valuable. While Yosouf was transacting business a thief stole the horse. The owner shortly afterward saw the thief leading his horse and took him before the kaid, or judge.

"The horse is mine," sturdily insisted the thief.

In vain the other argued, and the kaid was about to give his decision in favor of the villain when Yosouf advanced suddenly, threw his cloak over the horse's head and demanded of his enemy:

"Since you own the horse, tell the kaid in which eye the animal is blind."

"In the left," said the thief, making a wild guess.

Yosouf looked toward the kaid triumphantly. "He's blind in neither eye," said he.

So the noble horse came into its rightful owner's possession again, and the wicked Arab was punished.

In the Taproot of an Oak.
I remember a curious incident connected with the taproot of an oak. This oak, a good tree of perhaps 200 years' growth, was being felled at Bradenham wood when the woodmen called attention to something peculiar on the taproot. On clearing this of soil we found that the object was a horseshoe of ancient make. Obviously in the beginning an acorn must have fallen into the hollow of this cast shoe, and as it grew through the slow generations the root filled up the circle, carrying it down into the earth in the process of its increase till at length we found wood and iron thus strangely wedded. That taproot with the shoe about it is now or used to be a paperweight in the vestibule of Bradenham Hall.—Rider Haggard.

He was a young railroad man and went the pace. He had to borrow money to keep "his end up," and he fell into the clutches of a relentless money collector.

"I really am trying my best to pay back the coin I owe you," he pleaded. "I don't see much evidence of it," was the grim answer. "What are you doing?"

"I am buying a lottery ticket every month," answered the hopeful financier.—San Francisco Call.

Wanted Them All.
Julia Ward Howe was once talking with a dilapidated bachelor, who retained little but his conceit. "It is time now," he said pompously, "for me to settle down as a married man, but I want so much. I want youth, health, wealth, of course; beauty, grace!"

"Yes," said Mrs. Howe sympathetically, "you poor man, you do want the whole."

Senator Hemenway and other Indiana leaders will accompany Taft through Indiana. Chairman Hayes has arranged for several large rallies that Taft will address. On Thursday Oliver Carson of Indianapolis will speak at North Vernon, following Taft. W. S. Kenworthy of Iowa and Henry Rose Danner of New York will speak at Seymour. Senator Oscar Brand will speak at Mitchell; Thomas E. Boyd of Indianapolis at Bedford, Fred Landis at Bloomfield, J. M. Evans of Pennsylvania at Linton, Thomas Davidson at Greensburg, C. S. From all reports the interest manifested in the present campaign is a reminder of the stirring times of the Harrison-Cleveland contest in 1892. The people are turning out by the thousands to hear the issues discussed. The meetings are larger than ever before. Four years ago it was difficult to get large crowds, but this time it has been troublesome for the local managers to find halls of sufficient size. Watson has been greeted by immense audiences since the campaign opened. He has made 140 speeches and will continue on the stump right up to the last hour of the race. Chairman Hayes of the Republican speakers' bureau says that no candidate for governor ever had as large and enthusiastic meetings as Watson. Marshall's meetings have been large and he has gratified the Democratic leaders by his style of campaigning. Everywhere the voters are showing a disposition to listen to the speakers and to get light on the questions that are being discussed. On the Republican side an effort is being made to arouse the fighting spirit of the Republicans by appealing to them to stand for the old-time party principles. The best speakers the national committee has are being sent to Indiana to discuss the national issues and to urge the Republicans to support their national and congressional tickets.

After 1,854,720,000 gallons of water flowed over the cascades at the soldiers' and sailors' monument, the pumping engines were shut down last Thursday to remain at rest during the winter months, with the exception of one day. It is the intention of the management of the monument to keep the water running over the cascades while the Benjamin Harrison monument is unveiled in University park. Oct. 27. The pumping engines kept the water pouring at a rate of 14,000 gallons of water a minute for twelve hours a day since April 15. If the Indianapolis fire force was set to work to throw that much water through its hose lines, using its fire engines at their highest speed, thirteen days would be required, twenty-four hours each day, for the performance of the feat. The water would fill a seven-inch pipe reaching across the Atlantic ocean.

Dashed into Open Switch.
Chillicothe, O., Oct. 19.—Two trainmen were probably fatally hurt and many passengers received minor injuries, when a passenger train on the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railroad Sunday afternoon crashed through an open switch into an empty accommodation which had been standing all night on a siding at Bainbridge. Both trains were completely wrecked. None of the passengers were seriously hurt. One man had his nose broken.

"Tigers" Take Exhibition Game.
Chicago, Oct. 19.—In an exhibition game Detroit, of the American League Sunday won from the world's champion Chicago team of the National League by a score of 7 to 3.

SOME PET ECONOMIES.

Saving String and Paper We Never Use—Wasted Medicines.

Hardly a person exists without some favorite economy, some little senseless tribute which he offers at the shrine of thrift and by which he saves—just nothing.

Some people refuse to cut the string of parcels and waste precious minutes laboriously untying knots. Others store away scraps of lace and silk and are delighted when a stray occasion justifies their practice by making use of a hoarded treasure.

I myself have a weakness for half sheets of note paper. I am annoyed exceedingly when I receive a letter with the third page covered and the second blank. It seems an opportunity missed. Yet as I rarely make use of my pieces I can only keep them from a magpie love of saving.

Apropos of this subject, I remember a clergyman once telling me about an aunt of his who in her eagerness that nothing should be wasted insisted upon drinking the remaining doses in any medicine bottles that the invalids in the household had been unable to finish.

This seems carrying a good principle a little too far.—London Black and White.

LECTURE ON MAN WITH THE BALLOT

Rev. Abberley in Fourth of Series of Lecture—Sermons Has a Timely Subject.

MANY VOTERS OUT TO HEAR

Liquor Curse is Characterized as the Foster Mother of All Evils in Our Political System.

Rev. R. W. Abberley at the Main Street Christian church last night spoke on "The Man With the Ballot." The large auditorium was crowded and a big part of the audience was men, many who are not in the habit of church going were present on account of special interest in the theme discussed. "The man with the ballot," Mr. Abberley said, should seek to be an ideal citizen and this means first of all that he will be an intelligent citizen and study carefully the political issues of the day that he may cast his ballot for the highest interests of the country.

Above all, the speaker said, the man with the ballot should be a self-respecting and respect compelling man; no toady to a party, no trimmer to a popular breeze, no drivelling camp follower in the world's onward march, but a manly man who is not afraid to have an opinion of his own and express it.

The greatest issues before the American people today, he said, are not commercial, but moral—the evils of bribery and political bossism, failure to enforce the law, gambling and the social evil, and the liquor curse, which is the foster-mother of all the evils in our political system. The man with the ballot should be brave enough to throw his influence toward casting out these evils from the temple of the Republic, as Christ drove the money changers from the temple in Jerusalem.

A PERILOUS FEAT.

Caging a Savage Hippopotamus in the London Zoo.

Many more little dramas are enacted at the zoo than the outside public wots of, says the London Standard. Behind the lion house there is a black leopards which is implacably savage and tries to eat her keeper. Her neighbor is a great romping leopard which a lady reared in India. He comes out to play when the British public is represented by only a liveried zoo man. Sometimes the animals get out without the consent of their keepers. One which did so was Obash, the hippopotamus. He proved a savage indeed when the attempt was made to deprive him of his liberty. Happily the gardens were closed at the time. Try as they would, the keepers could not entice or coerce the monster in the direction of his den. At last the superintendent called up an assistant whom the hippopotamus hated. The chief put a bank note into the man's hand. "Scott," he said, "throw open the paddock gate, show yourself to Obash, then run for it." Scott did. The animal went for him, raging along the path and after him into the paddock. Scott climbed the railings just in time, and the hippopotamus on turning found the gate secured behind it. Presently a press representative arrived to investigate the story, which had somehow become known. "Hippopotamus escaped? Oh, dear no! Come and see him in his den," he was answered as they led him to where the monster was caged.

FLOURISHED A BUTCHER KNIFE

Strangely Acting Fellow, Who Left

Rushville Last Week, Had Experience in Shelbyville.

HE ATTACKED TWO PEOPLE

Knocked Woman Against Wall and Was After a Man Who Was Riding a Bicycle.

A few weeks ago there came to Rushville a strangely acting individual. He claimed to be a court stenographer and for several days haunted Judge Sparks, seeking a position in the local court. He stopped at the home of William Smith, near the fire engine house in West Third street and the denizens of that community were alarmed at some of the stunts performed by the apparently demented man. City Marshall Price was called and after securing the name of the fellow's former home in Illinois, conferred with his relatives there. Word came back that the fellow was mentally unbalanced, but was harmless. Money was sent to him each week that he might pay his expenses.

The unfortunate fellow could converse fairly rational and as a rule seemed to be in a hurry, walking rapidly about the streets the day long. Last week he went to Shelbyville and the Morning News today contains the following story of an escapade there in which he was the central figure:

"Arthur Drais, an eccentric and peculiarly acting fellow who came here from Columbus several weeks ago, has been creating considerable commotion and excitement in the west part of town the past several days. Saturday evening the fright was given impetus when Drais, yelling as if possessed, ran into the rear of Harry Morrison's home on Harrison street, knocked Mrs. Morris against the wall and ran into the parlor screaming, 'help,' 'murder,' 'save me' and similar blood-curdling words. He escaped at the back door and since has eluded the police who are anxious to catch him. Drais left a note for his house mistress, Mrs. Anderson, asserting he had gone to Rushville and would return within a few days.

Drais Saturday evening, attacked Herschel Connor with a big butcher knife. Connor was coming to town leading a bicycle at his side. Drais who was crouching behind a tree in Dr. Endall's yard, ran toward Connor with uplifted hand. The murderous stare in his eyes was sufficient warning for Connor to know drastic action on his part was necessary to save his life. With all the force of fright and human strength could unite he hurled the bicycle at Drais. Drais staggered and fell to his knees rearing toward the alley at the side of Morrison's home. He ran into the yard and into the rear door. Mrs. Morrison, who was in the kitchen, was pushed against the wall by Drais as he ran with leaps and bounds into the parlor. The members of the Morrison home were much frightened by the fellow's strange antics.

Several days ago Drais conceived some wrong had been done him by Connor and threatened to kill him. Several times he made threatening gestures when Connor passed but Saturday evening was Drais' first effort to make his threat effective.

Drais was incarcerated in the Columbus jail because of his erratic proclivities. While there some interesting incidents of his life were learned.

Drais' mother, who was here on Thursday, is a resident of Rock Island, Ill. She sent her son clothing and money at Columbus and he returned the latter, it was claimed, at the time, because he preferred being a tramp than living in the luxurious compartments his mother has provided for him at his home. Drais was once an accomplished stenographer. Close application to business caused him to suffer mental debility. He has since been roving about, coming to Shelbyville from Columbus. His mother sends him money. The police will arrest Drais when he appears and endeavor to compel him to leave town. Much alarm is occasioned in the community in which he resides and many will appear against him as witnesses in the event he fails to acquiesce to the demands of the police."

SOCIETY WOMEN

Some Spend Hundreds of Dollars a Year on Their Hair.

Leaders of society in New York know the social value of attractive hair, and according to a metropolitan newspaper every society woman spends a great deal of money to keep her hair beautiful and resplendent.

These women employ highly paid hair dressers and specialists, and so long as they have money to gratify their desire for beautiful hair, none should complain.

But what about the thousands and thousands of women just as intelligent, just as refined, and just as lovable as any society woman, who have not the means for expert hair dressers and specialists?

What are they to do? Are they not entitled to beautiful, lustrous and luxuriant hair?

Most assuredly they are, and thousands of them give thanks daily to the great scientist and dermatologist who put within their reach, at a small price, the marvelous and quick acting hair tonic known all over America as Parisian Sage.

F. B. Johnson & Co. will sell you a large bottle of Parisian Sage for 50 cents. It will make any woman's hair grow thicker, more beautiful and more lustrous in a few weeks.

It cures dandruff by killing the microbes, and it is guaranteed by F. B. Johnson & Co. to cure dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks, or money back. Get a bottle while it's on your mind. It is a most pleasant hair dressing, and it is not sticky or greasy.

"ELEVATOR FOR STENO"

Young Lady Resigns Here to Take Up Work With Connersville Firm.

Says the Connersville Courier: Miss Regina O'Brecht, who has been employed in the office of an elevator company as stenographer, in Rushville for several months, has accepted a like position in this city with the firm of Clifford & Mathewson. Miss O'Brecht assumed her new duties today. Miss Edith Keller resigned her position with this firm recently to make preparations for her journey to Panama City, Panama, where she is to be married next month.

A CHILD'S HEROISM.

The Story of a Visit to the Beautiful Glasnevin Cemetery.

A pathetic story of a child's heroism is told by a Dublin gentleman. Recently he proposed to drive with his wife to the beautiful Glasnevin cemetery. Calling his son, a bright little boy, some four years old, he told him to get ready to accompany them. The child's countenance fell, and the father said:

"Don't you want to go, Willie?"

The little lip quivered, but the child answered, "Yes, papa, if you wish."

The child was strangely silent during the drive, and when the carriage drove up to the entrance he clung to his mother's side and looked up in her face with pathetic wistfulness.

The party alighted and walked among the graves and along the tree shadowed avenues, looking at the inscriptions on the last resting places of the dwellers in the beautiful city of the dead. After an hour or so thus spent they returned to the carriage, and the father lifted his little son to his seat. The child looked surprised, drew a breath of relief and asked:

"Why, am I going back with you?"

"Of course you are. Why not?"

"I thought when they took little boys to the cemetery they left them there," said the child.

Many a man does not show the heroism in the face of death that the child evinced in what to him had evidently been a summons to leave the world.—London Telegraph.

His Mean Trick.

"There certainly are differences in feelings," said the woman who sometimes philosophizes, "or at least different ways of expressing them."

"A few days ago a shocking incident occurred in the apartment house where I live. The janitor, who was an unusually good looking man, about thirty-five years old, killed himself for some wholly inadequate reason, some difference with his employer. Of course everybody in the house was much upset by the tragedy, and I, with other tenants, went down to the basement to see his wife and offer aid.

"The wife, however, seemed more resentful than grief stricken.

"Would you ever think such a fine man would do such a mean trick?" she exclaimed."—New York Press.
